

Judicial Services

Sodexo does not provide prisons/corrections services in the United States. For countries in which we do provide these services, Sodexo has been engaged since 1987 in improving living conditions for inmates, especially in the areas of hygiene, health and balanced diets, and in providing training and jobs programs to help them reintegrate with mainstream society. Sodexo companies provide a wide range of custodial services to governments in selected countries, provided that they do not have a death penalty law.
